Trissential Joins the Oracle® PartnerNetwork
as a System Integrator/Consulting Firm

Minneapolis, March 10, 2008 – Trissential, a business improvement company, has joined the Oracle® PartnerNetwork as a system integrator/consulting firm. Trissential gains access to a host of technical, sales, and support services for Oracle's JD Edwards EnterpriseOne enterprise resource planning (ERP) software.

Cindy Jorgensen, director of the JD Edwards Consulting Practice at Trissential, said that achieving partner status with Oracle represents an important step in the company's long-term goal of building the most respected and sought after JD Edwards full-service practice in the upper Midwest region of the United States.

"Trissential has assembled a team of functional business analysts, developer/programmers, and ERP architects who are all highly experienced in Oracle's JD Edwards EnterpriseOne software," Jorgensen said. "With the new status as an Oracle partner, our team members gain up-to-the-minute technical information as well as sales and support services for the most flexible ERP software on the market for midsize organizations – Oracle’s JD Edwards EnterpriseOne. This increases our value to clients.”

Jorgensen joined Trissential last year as leader of the firm’s newly formed JD Edwards specialty. Recognized as a JD Edwards software implementation and upgrade expert, Jorgensen founded and led the BORN JD Edwards practice.
